Italy Gives 4-Point Program For American Aid

DeGasperi Speaks To Congress

Premier Is Helped By NATO Approval

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Italian Prime Minister De Gasperi urged Congress today to back a four-point American aid program bolstering Italy's economic, military, political and moral ability to resist Communism.

The Italian leader, who earlier had been warmly welcomed to the United States by President Truman and cabinet members, addressed a joint meeting of Congress and was accorded a stirring reception.

De Gasperi emphasized to the legislators as he had to the chief executive, that his mission was to discuss matters of mutual interest in the common effort of the United States and Italy toward preserving peace and resisting aggression.

His four-point program, outlined in the address to Congress, included:

1. INCREASED Atlantic community orders for civilian and military supplies needed in the common defense effort which would give employment to many of the two million Italians now idle.

2. Opening of American immigration areas to permit overpopulated Italy to send more of its labor to U.S. shores.

3. Revision of the Italian peace treaty—a move already pledged at the Ottawa meeting of the North Atlantic Council.

4. A return of Trieste to Italy within the framework of the Anglo-French-American declaration of 1948.

De Gasperi reviewed the strenuous efforts his country has made since World War II to combat inflation and internal Communist threats, and thanked the U. S. for the great assistance it already has rendered.

De Gasperi was in a splendid advance position for his three days of conferences with the President and top U.S. military and economic spokesmen.

The just-concluded Ottawa conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) wholeheartedly endorsed Italy's request for a revision of her peace treaty.

PRIMARILY, this revision—which will be accomplished by unilateral agreements to avoid a Russian veto—will take all limitations off the strength of Italy's military establishment.

Under present treaty restrictions, Italy is limited to 300,000 men under arms in the army, navy, air force and carabinieri. Absurdity of this situation is recognized by the Western powers because Italy is a full member of NATO, and as such an expected contributor to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's Atlantic Pact defense forces.

Parts Shortages Bring Layoff Of About 30 At GE

Material shortages are being blamed for the temporary layoff of 10 percent of their 300 employees at the local General Electric plant. However, an early recall is expected.

No male employees are involved in this layoff. Ed Grigg, plant manager, stated: "Although the product is still considered the latest and best means of general lighting, this field is feeling the affects of defense changes and the scarcity of materials as are many other lines."

In discussing the general outlook, Grigg mentioned several planned production changes which give optimism for the early recall of the workers.

Next month, an additional group of lamps, which were the forerunner of the present Slimline type of lamps, will be in production as announced last week.

The coiling activity is now making plans to expand and later go on a second shift operation.

The lamp making section is continuing on a two-shift basis, according to Grigg, to enable rapid expansion to previous levels and future growth to full plant capacity.

KING GEORGE'S incapacitation due to his illness, may establish a Council of State in London. The council would include members of the royal family (above), and, if the king wished, Queen Elizabeth. The Duke of Gloucester is his brother, and the Princess Royal Mary is his sister. In event of extreme and lengthy incapacity, Princess Elizabeth, heir apparent, would be regent with monarchial powers.

SERIOUS SURGERY COMPLETED

King George Given 50-50 Chance After Operation

LONDON, Sept. 24—Great Britain's King George VI—possibly stricken with cancer and given a 50-50 chance of survival—was described today as in a condition "as satisfactory as can be expected."

The 55-year old monarch underwent a severe two-hour lung operation in Buckingham Palace yesterday.

His eight surgeons and physicians, who gave few details, said that the operation involved "resection" of a lung. This, medical circles said, would involve collapse and removal of one lobe of a lung or perhaps the entire organ.

A cancerous growth or a tumor may have been responsible. The official bulletins merely stressed that a "structural change" in the lung had necessitated surgery for the long-ailing monarch.

A high period of danger will exist during the first five days due to post-operative shock and the possibility of complications. These might include sudden collapse, secondary hemorrhage or infection.

THE 55-YEAR-OLD monarch was given a 50-50 chance to live by medical authorities because of his age and the nature of the operation—removal of part or all of one of his lungs.

Medical experts said it must be assumed that doctors presently are concentrating on the proper functioning of the other lung, using oxygen to help respiration. At the same time the king must be kept heavily drugged to withstand the shock of the complex and formidable operation.

Medical specialists envisaged that the king would be kept

Hit-Skip Racer Being Sought

Pickaway County authorities are seeking an auto involved in a minor hit-skip accident at about 7 p. m. Saturday on East Ohio street just outside Circleville.

Deputy James Diltz said Ray Isaac was backing his auto from a driveway at his home Saturday when two racing autos sped along Ohio street, side by side.

The auto in the wrong lane of traffic struck the Isaac auto, sideswiping it, and failed to stop. Diltz said the Isaac auto suffered about $50 in damages.

RIDGWAY AGAIN SUGGESTS DIFFERENT TRUCE TALK SITE

CAN'T KEEP THE THINGS OUT OF PUNKIN TOWN

Pumpkin Grows On Courthouse Tower

Pickaway County Treasurer Robert Colville blames it all on a pumpkin-planting pigeon.

"It's amazing," he said Monday. He stood on the sidewalk outside his office in Pickaway Courthouse, hands in his hip pockets, head thrown back. An unlighted stogy jutted from his lips toward a vine drooping from a ledge at the base of the clock tower.

But it wasn't the vine itself that astonished Colville. It was the pumpkins that were growing on the thing.

Colville estimated the weight of one of them at "about 25 pounds." The other weighed only about two pounds.

Colville climbed out on the ledge via a window in the clock tower and removed the larger pumpkin. He explained that he was afraid it might drop off the vine and strike someone below.

"I'm keeping it in my office," he said, "to show to skeptics. I know there'll be some. I left the other one up there for the same reason—for skeptics to see. I don't think there was any danger of it falling, but just to be sure

I fastened it with a rope." "Mr. Pumpkin Show" himself explained the phenomenon by saying that pumpkin seeds possibly had been carried to the ledge by pigeons and dropped in the silt collected there over the years.

This is not the first year in which pumpkins have been found sprouting around the courthouse. But it is the first year one has been found in a spot where pilfering would be difficult.

On previous occasions pumpkins have been found in flower beds around the courthouse.

"They were there," said Colville, "but someone always swiped them before the Pumpkin Show opened."

He explained that this year efforts had been made to keep the flower beds free from stray pumpkin seeds. He said it was feared the pumpkin plants would damage flower bulbs planted by a local garden club.

"But Circleville is a pumpkin center," Colville said, casting another admiring squint at the dangling vine. "And you just can't keep the things out."

58,000 Red Casualties Are Counted

UN Wins, Loses Bloody Hilltop

TOKYO, Sept. 25—(Tuesday)—An Eighth Army spokesman today claimed Allied forces have inflicted 58,000 casualties on the Communists in the last five-and-a-half weeks of bloody see-saw fighting.

The announcement came even as UN troops in East Korea girded for a new attempt to regain the tallest of two peaks on "Heartbreak Ridge" for the third time in two weeks.

The spokesman said that of 58,000 Reds killed or wounded since Aug. 18, 15,000 were hit during the first week of September. More than half of these were on the craggy, fog-shrouded eastern front.

"Heartbreak Ridge" lived up to its name Monday when swarming Communists recaptured the towering height only a few hours after American infantrymen had successfully stormed it.

IT WAS THE fourth time the 3,500-foot hilltop north of Yang-gu had changed hands in 14 days of bloody fighting in which both sides have suffered heavy casualties.

Both peaks of the strategic ridge were in the hands of stubborn North Korean troops, but the "saddle" between the two craggy hills was held firmly by United Nations soldiers.

On the west central front Allied planes sighted 2,300 Communist trucks Sunday night. The planes destroyed 375 and damaged 426 others.

The Airforce also sent out fighter bombers Monday morning and killed or wounded some 200 Reds in 53 sorties with napalm against the deep Communist bunkers near Chorwon.

In one of the deadliest struggles of the whole Korean war, American foot sloggers stormed and won the loftiest peak of Heartbreak Ridge Sunday evening with bayonets and grenades.

The Americans beat back a fanatical Red counterattack before midnight. But the Communists rushed reinforcements into the battle early Monday and swept the GIs off the crest.

IN SEIZING the peak at the south end of the ridge, the Americans had clambered up the rocky slope under terrific artillery, mortar and machinegun fire from the remnants of a last-ditch North Korean regiment.

Merciless fighting, much of it hand to hand, raged throughout the day after two American spearheads jumped off just before dawn Sunday in a twin-pronged assault.

Senate Eyes More Taxes

Indiana Solon Proposing Slash

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Congress was urged today to cut present tax rates and government spending rather than approve any part of the $5.5 billion tax increase bill now before the Senate.

The appeal came from Sen. Jenner, (R) Ind. The young Republican charged in a speech prepared for Senate delivery that the administration is "collaborating" with the nation's enemies and "throwing away our hard won earnings with utter recklessness."

Jenner's declaration came after Sen. Martin, (R) Pa., asserted that the revenue carried in the bill "is the maximum amount that can be piled up on top of the high taxes we are now paying."

Sen. Douglas, (D) Ill., meanwhile, announced he will offer an amendment to the tax legislation to prohibit corporations from deducting liquor costs as a business expense.

Baby Born After Mother's Death

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 24—Shreveport doctors today described the birth of a baby after its mother had died in an iron lung as "one of the rarest cases" in medical history.

The baby boy was born last night by a post-mortem caesarean operation immediately after Mrs. Shirley McCarthy, 23, died in a respirator.

Dr. S. George Wolfe, medical director of the police center at the Veterans Administration hospital, said the mother was eight months pregnant, had been in the iron lung since Sept. 16,

LOANS, GIFTS, LUSH JOB

Retired Federal Employee Tied To RFC Investigation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—A former government employee told senators today that he got gifts, $3,000 in loans, and a $25,000-a-year job from the American Lithofold Co.

The testimony came from Charles Moling, former executive in the Airforce printing procurement office, as the Senate "influence" committee resumed its probe of Lithofold's relations with the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Moling said Lithofold gave him a camera, a ham, a turkey, a television set, and finally, last March a good job.

The witness, who retired after working for the government 30 years, is now eastern sales manager for Lithofold, gets $25,000 a year and expenses to build up the business on the east coast. He made $6,400 a year while working for the Airforce.

MOLING'S testimony followed a demand by Sen. Nixon, (R) Calif., that the committee obtain the 1949-50 income tax returns of Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle.

Boyle has been accused of using political influence to get government loans totaling $645,000 for Lithofold, which put him on its payroll when the loans were pending.

Meanwhile, staff investigators started digging into charges that Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson "improperly" intervened with the RFC for an extension of an $18.5 million loan to Carthage Hydrocol, Inc., of which he is president.

The Senate has been told that Gabrielson acted improperly in accepting a fee in the case because of his GOP position.

Sen. Hickenlooper, (R) Iowa, urged the committee to give Gabrielson an immediate hearing. Hickenlooper said the Boyle hearing should be interrupted for this purpose.

But Chairman Hoey, (D) N. C., and Sen. Mundt, (R) S. D., said that staff members will have to do "spadework" behind the scenes before any public hearings are held in the Gabrielson case. They said similar research preceded hearings in the Boyle inquiry.

Mundt said the committee might get to Gabrielson late this week. A bloc of Senate Republicans has demanded Gabrielson's resignation if the charges are upheld.

Inflation Said As Big An Enemy As Communism

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston paired inflation and Communism as the two great threats to the United States.

The economic stabilizer termed the Communist threat as one that was global, working "under a unified high command determined to destroy us."

But, Johnston asserted, inflation is just as great an enemy. He said it could wipe out the middle classes and destroy the U. S. economy. Johnston maintained that inflation was responsible for the rise of Hitlerism in Germany and the success of Communism in China. Johnston said:

"If inflation ever got loose in America and rioted around in this economy, we could just as well forget about defending ourselves against Communism for inflation would do Communism's work for it—more effectively than bullets or bombs."

UN, Reds Agree To Try Again

Parties Continue To Trade Notes

TOKYO, Sept. 24—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway again asked the Communists today to move the Korea armistice conference out of Kaesong in order to avoid further neutrality disputes.

However, there were authoritative indications the Allies would be willing to renew the suspended talks in Kaesong if—as one source put it—"new conditions more conducive to progress should be arrived at."

The new proposal for a change in the conference site was contained in a memorandum delivered by United Nations liaison officers to Red officers at an hour-long meeting in Kaesong this morning.

Another liaison session in the controversial Korean city was set for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning (8 p. m. Monday EST). At that time the Red high command is expected to reply to Ridgway's renewed request to move the talks to some other place.

AT PAN MUN Jom, on the edge of the Kaesong neutral zone, the Communists delivered a new memorandum to the Allies Monday evening.

Its contents were as yet undisclosed.

The communication was handed by North Korean Col. Chang Chun San, chief Red liaison officer, to a South Korean officer for delivery to Airforce Col. A. J. Kinney, head of the UN liaison group.

A Monday night communique from Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters set forth the arguments presented at the liaison meeting in behalf of the UN supreme commander, favoring a change in the parley site.

Three main reasons were cited: 1. The presence of irresponsible partisan groups in the neutralized Kaesong area represent a constant menace to the continuance of the negotiations.

2. Maneuvers by both UN and Red forces around the perimeter of the neutral zone daily pose the chance of an "unintended" neutrality breach.

3. The Kaesong area lies so close to important Red military supply routes that there is a danger of accidental aerial violations of the neutral zone.

Notwithstanding Ridgway's latest move, there were indications the supreme commander's armistice delegation would return from Japan to Korea in a few days to resume the talks in Kaesong.

VICE ADM. Charles Joy, head of the five-man delegation, conferred with Ridgway Monday.

The communique said Ridgway, through his liaison officers, "made it clear that new conditions more conducive to progress towards an armistice should be arrived at prior to resumption of the negotiations."

Observers said that Communist acceptance of such "new conditions" might persuade the UN military chief to drop his suggestion for a change in the conference site.

Another Drunk Driver Rapped

Lindsey Hill, 55, of Hayward avenue was deprived of his driving permit for one year Saturday by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The license was suspended after Lindsey pleaded guilty to drunken driving. In addition he was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to Pickaway jail for 30 days. The jail term was suspended.

Lindsey was arrested Friday following an accident on Route 22 west of Circleville.

DOCTORS GIVE STATISTICS

U.S. Medical Care Costs Up 48 Pct. Since 1939

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—The American Medical Association has reported that medical care—drugs, hospital rooms, physician and dental services—now cost 48 per cent more than it did in 1939.

The AMA based its figures on the consumer price index compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and argued that the increase actually means a 14 per cent "relative" reduction in cost for the average U. S. citizen.

Behind this reasoning, the AMA said, is the fact that the cost of living has jumped 72 per cent since the 'thirties. Food prices have risen 104 per cent, clothing 88 per cent and housing 90 per cent in the same period. Two items—rent, up 31 per cent, and fuel, electricity and refrigeration, up 41 per cent, have increased more slowly than the cost of medical care. The AMA added:

"A DOLLAR in 1950 (compared with the 1935-39 dollar) could buy 68 cents worth of medical care but only 58 cents worth of all goods and services, or 86 per cent as much. The 1950 purchasing power of the dollar was 86 per cent as high in terms of goods and services, generally, as it was in terms of medical care prices only.

"Thus, in terms of the purchasing power of the 1950 dollar, medical care was relatively 14 per cent cheaper than in 1935-39."

Physicians fees, according to the price index, rose 40 per cent. Hospital room rates, however, increased 135 per cent—faster than the entire consumers' price index.

The AMA study said this "reflects the fact that hospitals are singularly exposed to the forces of inflation."

The association's report, although it emphasized the 14 per cent "relative" reduction, took cognizance of the basic 48 per cent medical cost increase over the 15-year span.

Dr. John W. Cline of San Francisco, president of the AMA, commented:

"Physicians recognize that the cost of medical care, especially hospital care, is a serious budget item for many persons. Therefore the doctors are strongly supporting various voluntary pre-payment insurance plans to help meet these costs."

Weekend Raids Due To Bring Gambling Probe

MT. VERNON, Sept. 24 — A grand jury probe of gambling activities in the Mt. Vernon area may result from today's appearance in common pleas court of 19 persons caught in a spectacular series of weekend raids.

Judge Jay McDevitt said he wanted to learn more about the problem and also consult with County Prosecutor Creed Joplin Lester.

Sheriff Salathiel Bumpus of Knox County, two deputies and a private investigator climaxed a six-week investigation by raiding 21 establishments in 11 hours.

They caught 28 persons and ordered 19 to appear in court.

Sheriff Bumpus almost filled his office with slot machines, cookie jars, punch boards, pull boards, pick-win tickets and bingo tickets.

The action resulted from a probe started by a citizens committee which hired a private investigator from Columbus on what they charged was "wide open" gambling in Mt. Vernon.

Taft Is Feeling Very Confident

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24 — Sen. Robert A. Taft cancelled engagements and headed back for Washington today after indicating his speaking tour had heightened his hopes for the presidency.

He said in Cincinnati, after returning from North Dakota, that "if I got the same reception in a few more states, I think I'd decide to run."

Taft started a swing through the northwest last Wednesday. He was to make addresses in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, but changed his itinerary.

Ohio Officials Battling For Natural Gas

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24 — Attorney General C. William O'Neill went to Washington today to oppose the diversion of 90 million cubic feet of natural gas daily to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

O'Neill is representing the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio which has intervened in the case.

At the same time, Commission Member Ray Martin accepted an invitation to discuss the gas emergency with C. P. Rather, deputy administrator of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, at the annual National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners convention Oct. 19 in Charlotte, S. C.

Martin, who will uphold the position of the states, sharply criticized a PAD order which diverts large supplies of natural gas from Ohio and the Midwest to new users in New England states as "defeating its own efforts."

Martin pointed out that Ohio's economy has been built on gas for the last 50 years while "all the New England states have built their industrial systems on coal."

The PUCO commissioner said that Ohio's gas freeze of last May 17 prohibits the addition of any new private home furnaces or industrial consumers in all critical areas. The PAD order permits the addition of one per cent of the total number of meters in new areas for the next two years.

Expert Gives 4 Tips On Buying Fall Feeders

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 — An Illinois livestock specialist, W. J. Wills, has four tips for farmers who want to make the best possible buy in feeder cattle this fall.

Wills says: (1) know quality, (2) watch weighing conditions, (3) don't buy stale cattle and (4) be sure of the reliability and integrity of the seller.

Cattle feeder prices have been unusually high and chances for profits are risky this season. So, it's doubly important to make the best buy.

It is especially necessary to know quality well enough to get feeders at a fair market price. Wills says to avoid counterfeits and ringers. The ability to pick out so-called good doers is all-important.

It will help to know where the cattle were weighed and whether they were full or empty. Find out if the scales were accurate. It is extra important to know weighing conditions if pay weights are used. Discounts make a big difference in profits, Wills says.

No cattle from any source are immune from going stale. Stale cattle do not start off well when they reach the feed lot. They are found most often when cattle are not moving in volume.

And, Wills cautions, buy from a reliable seller.

However, police still have not recovered the auto.

King George Given 50-50 Chance After Operation

Informed London sources said that the appointment of a Council of State may be expected within the next few days to take over routine official duties of the king.

Such a council would include Queen Elizabeth, Princess Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Gloucester and the Princess Royal.

London morning newspapers strongly urged establishment of the council in order to "save the king further strain."

It also was indicated that due to the severity of the operation, Princess Elizabeth would be appointed Princess Regent. This would be in the event that recovery is incomplete or leaves the king a chronic invalid—which

Grocery Clerks Get New Pact

Brooklyn Cops Face Indictment

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 — New indictments—possibly for perjury—may be returned today against some of the 18 cops freed in the abortive Brooklyn graft trial when the ex-bookie king, Harry Gross, refused to testify.

Woman Bruised In Accident On Route 56

A Circleville woman suffered minor injuries early Sunday in a two-car crash east of town caused by a blowout.

The mishap happened at about 10:45 a. m. Sunday on Route 56 about five miles east of Circleville.

Charles Cantrell, 62, of Columbus, was operating an auto west when the mishap happened, while Oliver Lemon, 70, of 216 East Mill street, was driving east.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Dewey said a tire on the Lemon auto blew out as the two cars approached each other, throwing the Lemon auto to the left into the path of the Cantrell auto.

The autos collided in a head-on sideswipe, with the right side of the Cantrell auto and the right side of the Lemon car colliding.

Mrs. Martha Lemon, a passenger in her husband's auto, suffered face injuries in the crash.

NO MOON FAIRIES?

THE Canton Cultural Institute and Chungshan University are sponsoring public lectures to prove to the Chinese people there is nothing mysterious about the moon and that no fairies or beautiful women live there, as claimed by native folklore.

This latest Communist venture into the field of public enlightenment has more basis than most of the scientific moonshine the comrades try to palm off on the world. But the Chinese may resent, as so many peoples do, the destruction of cherished illusions and favored fantasies. Certainly the existence of fairies on the moon is a legend of childlike beauty that can harm no one and, for those who believe it, may help make more endurable the harsh circumstances of Chinese life.

It would be interesting to know how Communist lecturers go about proving there are no fairies on the moon. There is no proof that animate life does not exist anywhere else in space. Creatures on the moon could as easily be fairies as anything else.

A CALL TO THE COLORS

AN URGENT appeal for blood donations to hasten and assure the recovery of soldiers wounded in Korea has just been made by General Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and by General Ridgway. Reserve supplies of whole blood have been completely exhausted, it is announced—at a time when many wounded need daily transfusions to insure their recovery.

This is a call to the colors which the civilian back home can answer without sacrifice and inconvenience. Surely none of those wounded while fighting in Korea should be permitted to die for lack of this essential to his recovery.

The American Red Cross is making it convenient for donors by setting up centers in all parts of the nation. Before his retirement General Marshall asked every citizen to give at least three pints of blood before next Summer, to restore stocks which have been dwindling dangerously.

There are 44,000,000 families in the U.S.—which gives you an idea of the relative importance of your tribe.

These Days

The struggle for power within the Republican Party may result in another Democratic triumph. It needs to be faced honestly that although Gen. Dwight Eisenhower holds the imagination of large segments of the population, particularly among businessmen and the middle class, for the politicians he is a stalking horse.

All the prospective candidates, and there are oodles of them, realize that in a clinch between Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft, someone might be a compromise—drafted, they call it.

The prospective draftees are Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Harold Stassen, Earl Warren, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, to mention a few. As a matter of cold political fact, anyone with the rank of governor or United States senator would enjoy being drafted for the presidential nomination and some are even hopeful for the vice-presidential.

It is, of course, a natural and legal right for any native-born American, of the proper age, to be a candidate for President. And some of our Presidents in the past have been no better than some that offer themselves today. Yet, these are critical times and the country requires a wise, experienced, moral leadership. It requires a personality of the highest calibre.

Eisenhower could only run by consent of President Truman. Specifically that means that if Mr. Truman does not wish Eisenhower to run, he can, quietly, unostentatiously, stack the cards to have it that way. He can keep him so busy that Eisenhower's withdrawal from Europe to run for office could be a public scandal.

On the other hand, if Mr. Truman did the wholly unexpected, he might favor Eisenhower, even as a Republican, should the general so declare himself, assured that Eisenhower would, for a while, be merciful toward the record and personalities of the Democratic regime, of which he is now a part and has been since World War II.

However, should Eisenhower run, he might discover the cumulative wrath of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who, realizing that the years have probably eliminated him as a candidate—although his friends do not hold to that notion—seeks for his country a moral resurrection.

MacArthur does not regard Eisenhower as a resurrecter. He is likely to make it difficult for any candidate, particularly for Eisenhower, by bringing before the public the realistic issues facing the American people. This, none of the politicians desires for the next campaign.

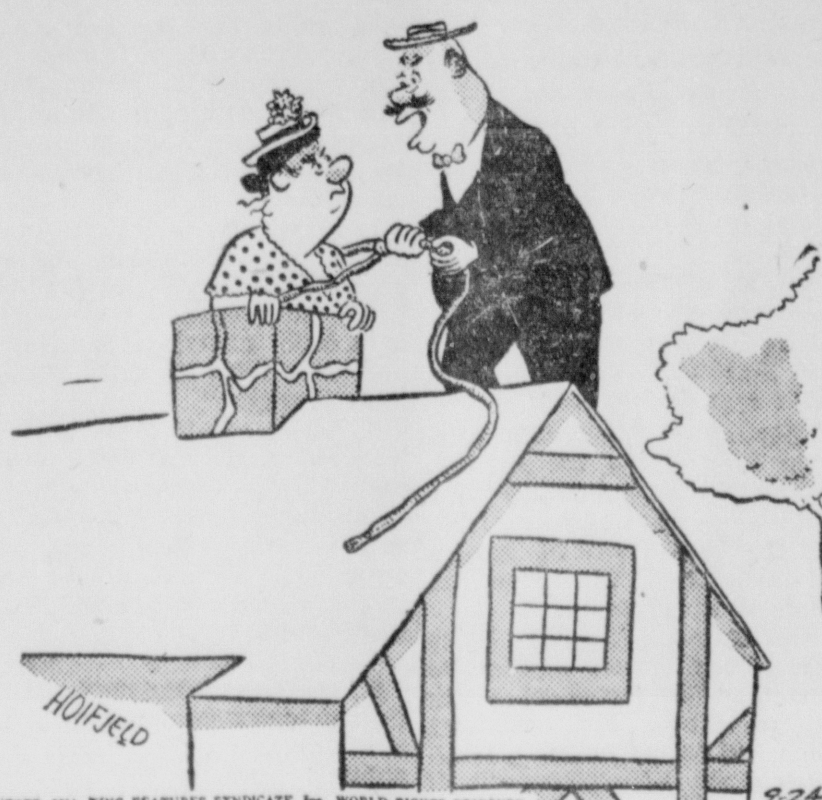

Dewey is an anti-Taft candidate. He resents Taft's leadership and stature. He also dislikes being pushed to one side. Dewey is an able man, but not too graceful in his political relationships. His opposition to Taft is without meaning, except that the defeat of Taft has become a monomania with him.

He may succeed in preventing Taft from being nominated. His combination with Senator Duff of Pennsylvania and Governor Warren of California will give Dewey great force in the convention, but it will split their party wide open. The Taft followers will not accept again a Wilkie-type Republican nor will they take Dewey. They will either stay away from the polls, as many Republicans have done during the last three elections, or they will vote for Mr. Truman as a protest against "me-too-ism."

The essential difference in following is that a generation of Republicans has appeared who are either seeking an end to the immoralities, corruption, deceit and connivings that have characterized the Truman second term or they are liberals, as

Migraine—A Medical Puzzle

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PERIODIC attacks of excruciating headache on one side of the head, preceded by flashes of light before the eyes and accompanied by nausea and vomiting, add up to the condition known as migraine, one of the most perplexing of all medical puzzles.

Dozens of theories have been advanced to explain its peculiar behavior, but evidence is lacking to support many of them and none has led to a completely successful treatment. Experts of more than 70 years ago believed migraine to be due to spasm of the blood vessels in the brain and, even today, this theory is still favored by some.

Other Theories
Our constantly expanding knowledge of allergy has led to the idea that migraine may be due to over-sensitivity, and it is also suggested that some disturbance of the glands of internal secretion may play a role in producing this disease. Vitamin deficiencies have also been proposed as a cause.

Sometimes a thorough examination will reveal the source of the trouble in the individual case, and here treatment can be directed at preventing the recurrent bouts of headache altogether. In the vast majority of cases, however, no definite cause can be found; hence, treatment can only be useful in stopping the attack as soon as possible after it develops.

Helpful Preparation

For this purpose, the most helpful preparation seems to be one known as ergotamine tartrate. Drugs which dilate the blood vessels, and simple pain-relieving drugs do not seem to be of much value.

In using the ergotamine, it is important that it be given in sufficient dosage as early in the course of an attack as possible. A derivative of ergotamine, known as dihydroergotamine methanesulfonate or D.H.D.-45, has also been employed with good results in migraine attacks.

Combined Treatments

A more recent treatment consists of the giving of a combination of ergotamine tartrate with caffeine by mouth, or by giving it combined with atropine in a suppository which is administered through the rectum. It has been found that either of these treatments has been more effective in relieving the migraine than the ergotamine alone.

During an attack, the patient should be put at complete rest in bed, preferably in a darkened room.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

T. C.: My sister has an abscess in her rectum, which is very painful. It is red and swollen, disappears for a while and then starts up again. What can be done?

Answer: It is possible that your sister has what is known as a rectal fistula. This condition is best corrected by surgery.

Try, Stop Me

The brilliant young Rochester attorney, Sol Linowitz, sends me the story of three rabbis who fell to philosophizing. Said the first, "The young people are the lucky ones. The world is before them. They have nerve, enthusiasm, good health." The second said, "I must disagree. Old folks are the luckiest. They have achieved serenity, peace of mind, and freedom from financial strain."

The third rabbi gravely shook his head. "You're both wrong," he declared. "The young people have pain and despair. The old have regrets and bodily aches. No, I believe the luckiest people are really those who were never born." Stung by his logic, the first two rabbis indignantly protested. "Granted! But how many people like that do you find in the whole world?"

SYNOPSIS
To meet debts, the socially prominent Harrison Blaydes are forced to sell their home in a lovely Southern city, a calamity which Edna Blaydes, the extravagant wife, accepts with poor grace. Her whining protests drive her husband and their children, teenage Anne and Deke, most to despair. Edna's bitterness centers on her sister-in-law, Laura Blaydes, a hard-working, gallant victim of a broken home. Edna resents the family's affection for Laura, and Laura's new-found friendship with handsome Jim Eliot, war-vet hero and also victim of an unfortunate war-time marriage. Highly respected Judge Fowler Powell is a life of spinsterhood, devoted herself completely to her invalid mother. Edna had fallen secretly in love with a popular college athlete, named Tony, but had abandoned any hope of finding happiness with him. Young Anne Blaydes tells Jim Eliot of her Aunt Laura's tragic marriage, how she had released her husband to another woman. The Blaydes children stand staunchly by their distressed father, while their mother continues to nag and harass him.

CHAPTER TWELVE
HARRISON sat with his hands relaxed on the wheel, and looked at the white, square, unassuming house, its clean paint illumined by the street light on the corner. Tree shadows made a mosaic on the walls. A soft light showed behind drawn curtains in the dining room. The front door stood open and faintly from the rear came the sounds of dishes being washed.

Sharply old pictures rose up in his mind: Edna in that kitchen, her face flushed and glowing as she triumphantly pulled a fluffy, golden pie from the oven. Where had that glow gone? he wondered.

"You were a cute baby, Deke," he said suddenly. "We had fun in that house."

"I don't remember much," he admitted, "only my trike that Christmas and the time you bought the ice-cream freezer."

"And you sucked so much ice you got colic. Remember the time we got the house painted?"

"Oh, gosh, yes! And I climbed up the ladder and was scared to come down. You came all the way home and got me down and you wouldn't let Mom spank me."

"Can you remember all that, Deke? That was nine years ago."

"Yeah, I remember." Harrison started the car. There was something restful about this quiet, middle-class street—no big houses, no landscaped grounds, no black metal signs on little posts with the owner's name conservatively lettered in gold.

"Let's get some hot dogs. I'm kinda hungry," suggested Deke. "You didn't eat your dinner. We won't have any more family discussions at mealtime. Bad for you kids."

"Well, heck, we belong to the family, don't we? If you and Mom are going to fight I'd rather get it straight, than lie in bed and hear a lot of jawing and not know what it's all about. If you and Mom are going to get divorced you'll tell me, won't you?"

"We aren't going to get divorced, son. We'll work out our problems together, all of us together." "People do get divorced, all the time. Aunt Laura did. Pop, let's go see Aunt Laura. She always has stuff to eat. It's only a little past nine. She won't be in bed yet."

"She may be out, or going out." "Hey look, Aunt Laura's home. I see a light," Deke said as they approached her house.

Harrison was a trifle embarrassed when Laura's door opened and he saw Jim Eliot sitting there. They had been playing a card game and Laura had spilled her hand on the floor when she got up to open the door.

"She cried, 'Wipe, Harrie Blaydes! How nice! And you too, you old scoundrel!' She gave Deke a playful poke in the nose. 'Come along in. I was trying to teach this big dope how to play canasta. Have a cheer and rest your hat, as they say in South Carolina.'"

"Deke and I were cruising around town and we saw your light," Harrison explained. "How are you, Eliot?" He shook hands. "Any luck?"

"She talks too fast," Eliot laughed. "Deke, you come help me bust out the ice cubes. I always ruin at least one finger."

When Laura and the boy had disappeared into the tiny kitchen, Eliot leaned forward, resting his elbows among the scattered cards.

"I think Gaines will be ready to close by Monday," he said. "I hope to salvage about ten thousand dollars for you, and it will be cash."

"Good work!" Harrison expelled a long breath of relief. "I won't take so much of a beating as I thought. I'll lose about ten thousand, counting six years' interest, but we have to charge off six years' rent of the house against that. By the way, you'd better make it clear that we'll need sixty days. I can't get possession of my Durham Street property before that."

Eliot puckered his forehead and drummed on the table with a single card. "That's the only hitch. I'm pretty sure Gaines is going to want almost immediate possession. I might be able to persuade him to give you thirty days, but I doubt if he'll concede sixty."

"But, good Lord, he can't expect me to put my family out in the street!"

"He's not a man to consider anybody's family. After all, Blaydes, it is a cash sale. We might be able to persuade your Durham Street tenants to evacuate earlier for a small bonus. Or maybe I could sell them a house. I'm loaded up with a lot of that stuff out by the airport. Low down payment and all the time in the world."

"Not time enough to pay for law in his father's office, he started his career as a smalltown lawyer and politician. He was a spellbinder before juries. In 1915 he negotiated a $130 million loan for railway and canal construction in China. At 53 he tossed his hat into the political ring and went to Washington in 1933 as a U. S. senator. He was a bitter opponent of the New Deal, but joined hands with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's foreign policy. In 1946 he was appointed America's "Ambassador to the World" at Lake Success. Who is he?"

Marines Have Advantage With Their Own Aircraft | Army Strategists Want Field Control of Planes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—It is pretty generally recognized in the Pentagon that man-for-man the U. S. Marines are America's most effective fighting force, and that one main reason is that they have their own aircraft under their own control.

Army strategists, depending on the Air Force for their tactical air support, are admittedly unhappy about this situation. Gen. Mark W. Clark has expressed their feeling in a suggestion that Army commanders be given field control of the planes assigned to them. The step is opposed by the Air Force.

The real rub is this: The Marines are an elite corps with a "luxury" budget, to provide the Army with as much per capita air support as is enjoyed by the Marines would cost the Air Force its entire budget and then some. And, of course, the number of planes available per man limits the tactics that can be employed.

What remains to be seen, in this day when leading nations are pressing against the ceiling of conceivable peacetime military spending, is whether it is better to let Army commanders or air strategists determine what planes should be built and how they should be flown.

Russia, where all planes are under Army control, provides an opposite example. While there are other factors, this no doubt contributes to the fact that the Soviets have far more fighters and far fewer heavy bombers than the U. S.

● Topsy Turvy Congress—If any evidence of the confused political picture in Congress is needed, it can be found in the Senate's consideration of funds for the Voice of America.

In that debate and vote, the country was treated to the spectacle of a Democrat—Senate Judiciary Chairman Pat McCarran of Nevada—fighting to keep money from the administration, while a conservative Republican—Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota—fought to provide the funds.

The issue was whether the Voice and allied information programs of the State department were entitled to $63 million as urged by McCarran or $85 million as urged by Mundt and a bloc of liberal Republicans and Democrats.

The Democrats favoring the higher figure wisely let Mundt do most of the talking, thereby picking up GOP votes they might otherwise have lost.

Upshot was that while the administration didn't get the $115 million it asked, it did get a lot more than Democrat McCarran was willing to give it.

● WILL HE OR WON'T HE?—They are in the minority, indeed, but there are voices crying out in Washington's political wilderness that President Truman will not seek re-election in 1952. Their reasoning goes something like this:

Although the President is technically exempt from the recent Constitutional amendment limiting a chief executive to two terms, political observers believe that Mr. Truman may decide the provision does apply to him morally.

They also say that Mr. Truman considers that his job of steering the U. S. along an internationalist course is done and that there is little chance of a reversion by this country to isolationism.

And finally, they say that Mr. Truman just doesn't like being President and Mrs. Truman doesn't like being First Lady.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Decision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to admit Greece and Turkey into the Western European defense system has riveted new attention upon the Mediterranean.

And Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spain, in logical sequence of events, again has become a nation of vast international importance.

It is undoubtedly eloquent, in view of the general situation, that in discussing the Spain of today, it automatically is referred to as "Franco's Spain."

This is the basis for wide opposition in many British and French circles to condoning Spanish re-entry into the democratic family of nations, despite the fact that diplomatic sources as a whole freely admit the advantages, if not the necessity, of Spain's cooperation in the Mediterranean in the event of a third world war.

The question of Spanish participation in European defense was given its greatest emphasis when Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, then chief of U. S. naval operations, visited Madrid shortly before his death in Naples.

SHERMAN SPENT much time with Franco and his military aides. He came away from the Spanish capital convinced that the Western powers would be

Ohio Egg Growers Hike Profits On Grading System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 — What happens when farmers are paid for their eggs by grades?

According to an Agriculture Department study, released today, Ohio farmers, who sell their eggs according to quality, make an extra effort to produce better eggs.

Officials report that egg handlers in Ohio using the federal-state official grading service increased the percentage of eggs marketed in the top grades from 55.6 percent to 74.5—a big difference, profit-wise.

There were other benefits besides improved quality. Farmers who sold to buyers using the official egg grading service increased their production more than those selling elsewhere, produced larger eggs and received those higher prices.

Warden Finally Able To Live Outside Prison

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24 — Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph W. Alvis is getting his wish to have a home outside the prison walls.

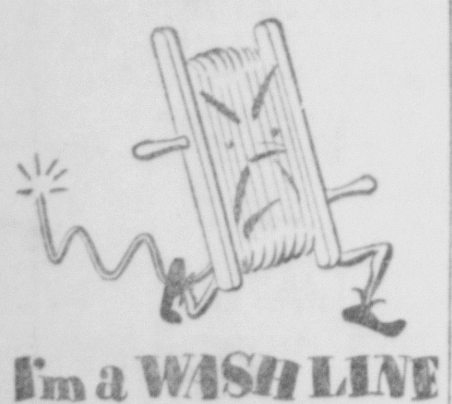

Welfare Director J. H. Lamneck has announced that the state board of control agreed to buy a $16,000 home for the warden on the north side of Columbus.

Lamneck said this would make it possible for the warden and his family to reside outside the institution.

Previously Alvis and his family were required to live at the penitentiary.

Lamneck said the purchase of a nine-room home had been completed except for securing of proper title papers.

The change was made possible by action of the state senate, effective Sept. 11.

Wallace Says '44 Advice To FDR Would Have Stalled China Reds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace said today that China might have been saved from Communism if the late President Roosevelt had followed his advice in 1944.

In a letter to President Truman, Wallace told of urging Mr. Roosevelt to name Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, a well-known anti-Communist, as his "personal representative" to Chiang Kai-shek and as commander of U. S. forces in China. This was not done for months.

Together with the letter, Wallace sent Mr. Truman copies of two hitherto-secret reports made to FDR during the former vice president's tour of the Far East. Mr. Truman sent all this material to Vice President Barkley, as presiding officer of the Senate, for use as he "deems appropriate."

The Senate Internal Security

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

Here's an idea for fun and frolic from a reader—a gay Western party.

"I am planning a Western party and I need some ideas for Western games, food, favors, etc. The place that I have selected for the party is in the country."

"I thought it would be fun to have the boys wear blue jeans, loud shirts, boots, cowboy hats and perhaps guns. The girls would wear long cotton skirts and off-shoulder blouses. Their ages will range from 15 to 18."

Ans.—Why not have a fire and cook frankfurts, toast marshmallows, serve doughnuts and cold drinks. Or you could serve "Western" sandwiches—egg and chopped ham with or without onion.

Does anybody in the crowd play an instrument—an accordion, ukulele, guitar or harmonica for Western music and singing? If not, take a portable radio for music. . . and make some music of your own by singing old and new hit parade favorites.

If the boys carry guns, be sure there is no ammunition in them. Most parents will probably be happier if you omit the gun idea entirely.

Play horseshoes and put up a target for a dart game. It will be fun if you award small, inexpensive comic prizes to the winners and claim a forfeit from the lowest scorers.

You could also have a three-legged race with girls and boys in pairs of boys racing against pairs of girls. Any more ideas for a Western party, readers?

For help with oily hair, write to Elinor Williams at this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a reply.

Committee under Chairman McCarran, (D) Nev., was told by ex-Communist Louis Budenz last month that two men who accompanied Wallace on the tour were Reds and furnished him with party line guidance.

THESE TWO were State Department Career Diplomats John Carter Vincent and Owen Lattimore. But Wallace said that Lattimore gave him no political advice on the trip and that Vincent obviously concurred in his "drastic" recommendations to FDR.

The 1948 Progressive Party presidential candidate said the fact that he proposed that Wedemeyer replace Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell was "enough to indicate that the purport of these recommendations was the opposite of pro-Communist."

Wallace declared: "History suggests that if my recommendations had been followed when made, the generalissimo would have avoided the disasters resulting from the Japanese offensive in East China later that Summer."

"And if Chiang's government had thus been spared the terrible enfeeblement resulting from these disasters, the chances are good the generalissimo would have been ruling China today."

In his report to Roosevelt, Wallace referred to Chiang as a "short-term investment" who apparently did not have "the intelligence or political strength to run postwar China."

But the former vice president warned that the disintegration of Chiang's regime would leave "a political vacuum which will be filled in ways which you will understand," Wallace told Mr. Truman this was meant as a "warning against the possibility" of a Red victory.

'GREATER LICENSE' HERE

Court Trials In U.S., Ireland Are Compared

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—Roger Greene, noted Irish lawyer, declared today that in the United States lawyers and the press seem to be allowed "greater license" in major court trials than in Ireland.

Such a performance as the defense lawyers put on in New York before Federal Judge Harold R. Medina at the trial of the convicted 11 top Communists would not be countenanced in Ireland, he said.

Greene, president of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland, spoke before the 74th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

"From what I have read of your trials here," Greene said, "greater license seems to be given to advocates and the press than is the case in Ireland."

"No judge would permit such behavior as that to which Judge Medina was subjected. Nor is criticism of the conduct of a case or personalities involved permitted in the public press (in Ireland) while a case is at hearing."

"EITHER WOULD be dealt with by a motion for contempt of court. Needless to say factual reporting does not come under this prohibition."

At 39, Greene is the youngest president of Ireland's Law Society which numbers 1,400 solicitors and is similar to the American Bar Association. He also is chairman of the board of the Irish News Agency.

Greene gave the U. S. lawyers a vivid word picture of how the legal profession operates in Ireland. He said Ireland has a well established legal system since the third century—known as the Brehon Laws. The Brehon Laws, he added, "approximated to our common law code today."

He drew a laugh when he related that the great Brehon in the fifth century, approximating the chief justice—Moran was his name—"wore a collar of gold around his neck which according to the old books tightened when he delivered a false judgment and expanded when he delivered the true one."

"What a pity," he said, "that someone of our shirt manufacturers of today do not take a leaf out of the Brehon Laws."

Law in Ireland today, he explained, is practiced by two professions—solicitors and barristers. The affairs of the profession are administered by the law society through a council of 45 members elected annually by the profession as a whole.

Greene said the council exercises "discipline," and that Ireland's solicitors are held in the highest public regard. The solicitors handle a "considerable" amount of clients' money and, he added, "every precaution is taken to safeguard the public interest—thereby safeguarding the prestige of the profession."

Washington leads in crimes of violence among major United States cities.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

There have always been some children in the early grades who want to stay home on school mornings. With more overcrowded classrooms there will be more of such children.

Some of these children, as soon as they awaken in the morning, begin to fret and cry and to beg their parents to let them stay home.

Some complain of pain in the head of stomach, some of nausea. A few have no appetite for breakfast or lose the breakfast they do eat. Some have been reported to me, who vomited when the school building came in sight.

The plight of such children is truly pathetic. Yet most of these children are hale and happy on other mornings.

It seems hard to force such a child to go to school. Yet if he stays home a day or so, he may dread still more to go to school later on.

Suppose this child is yours. You may be able to ascertain from him why he doesn't want to go to school or you may need to get this information elsewhere. He may have had some unfortunate experience with the teacher or with other children.

SOME BULLIES may have intimidated him. A younger brother or sister at home may be getting affection and attention there he fears he might miss. Perhaps he just can't feel happy away from his mother.

For the mother to go with him to school might help for awhile in the morning, but the other children will be harder on him if she stays, and he may create a scene if she leaves him. Usually it's better for the father or some other person to go with him, especially if some classmate also goes along.

As a rule, the teacher does not want either parent to remain with this child at school. Usually, if the child is left with no doubt in his mind that he will remain, he soon adapts himself to the inevitable.

Then there's the youngster who feigns illness on a school morning. Take his temperature or have your physician examine him.

If no strong evidence of illness is found and he still insists he is sick, put him to bed for the whole day and following night. Give him slight food, little attention, and few means for amusement.

Even though you succeed at having this child go regularly to school, he might still be very unhappy. Continue to study the probable causes of his dislike for school.

If the fear of bullies is an obvious factor, you might get help from the teacher in dealing with this problem. Or you might hire an older boy to be your child's protector.

IN THE MEANWHILE, do your utmost to help this child look after himself more at home, be happy out of your presence and have more fun with other children his age. (My bulletins, "Your Child and His Playmates" and "Tot Learning to Be Sociable," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Parents with children from two to four or five should try hard now to educate these little children in self-reliance physically and emotionally, and in getting on happily with normal playmates, thus preventing such problems as the foregoing.

Answering Parents' Questions

Q. What may we parents do to engender faith and confidence in our older children when they read and hear so much about the faithlessness of a few public officials?

A. We can and should turn their attention to the vast majority of public officials who serve their country, state or nation faithfully and unselfishly, beginning with those nearest home and known best by our children.

Q. Suppose your child in his early teens told you he didn't believe some of the religious ideas you have taught him.

A. I would try hard not to be shocked, angry or hurt. I would hope to win him by and by without words; and if I didn't, I would try to maintain his affection and esteem anyway, hoping he might work out a faith that proved helpful and satisfying to him.

Congress Eyes Immunity For Red Witnesses

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24—Congressmen investigating the Red infiltration of the film industry gave thought today to legislation which would grant immunity to witnesses testifying about their Communist affiliations.

The matter was given consideration as the House Committee on Un-American Activities prepared to renew for at least two more days its hearing on the Red plot to "take over" the movie studios.

Members of the committee felt that a law granting immunity would, if nothing else, leave no room for the excuse used by 26 witnesses who refused to testify at last week's sessions.

The uncooperative witnesses took refuge behind the fifth amendment to the Constitution, claiming that their testimony might tend to incriminate them.

Approximately 20 more witnesses were under subpoena as the committee prepared to resume its sessions after a week-end recess. Members of the committee said there was no indication of how many of the 20 would stand on their constitutional rights and decline to talk.

Of last week's 33 witnesses only seven testified freely. But among them, these seven gave the congressmen thousands of words of new information on the Communist situation in the film industry.

One of the main points they gave the probers was that although Communism is on the decline in Hollywood, a small fanatical core still exists.

Brake Pedal, Like Clutch, Soon To Be Old Fashioned, Expert Says

SOUTH BEND, Sept. 24—Some of the 1952 model automobiles will be equipped with revolutionary power braking, with only the soft touch of the foot needed to bring cars to a safe halt.

This motoring development has been announced by Bendix Aviation Corp., which predicted that the traditional brake pedal may soon join the clutch pedal as a vanishing automobile fixture.

George Stoll, vice president of Bendix, said that power braking is controlled by a small treadle next to the accelerator, with power from the motor doing all the work.

"This is the most revolutionary advance in automobile control since the advent of four wheel brakes," Stoll asserted. Motorists driving cars with the new device—known as the "Treadle-Vac"—will find brake operations almost effortless.

ONLY ENOUGH resistive force will be built up by the braking system to give the driver the feel of brake application necessary for smooth stops.

Stoll said you might call the Treadle-Vac a "decelerator," since it will be similar to and operate in much the same way as the accelerator which controls the speed of the motor.

The Bendix official said the brake control will be so located that the motorist can cut his power and apply brakes by a simple movement of the foot, pivoting on the heel.

"Tests show that this takes one-fourth less time than the conventional gas-to-brake-pedal movement," Stoll explained. "The time saving alone will cut five feet from the stopping distance of a car speeding at 60 miles an hour."

Treadle-Vac works on the present hydraulic brake principle. It consists mechanically of a power cylinder, a piston with a built-in control valve. Stoll said it eliminates the need for the conventional master cylinder in the hydraulic brake system.

In brake application, the piston is impelled by motor power toward the hydraulic end of the cylinder, compressing the brake fluid in a "slave" cylinder. The pressure then is transmitted to the brakes through the regular hydraulic lines as in the conventional systems.

In case anyone is worried about what might happen if the car was coasting with the engine off, Stoll said the brakes would still operate the same as the conventional type.

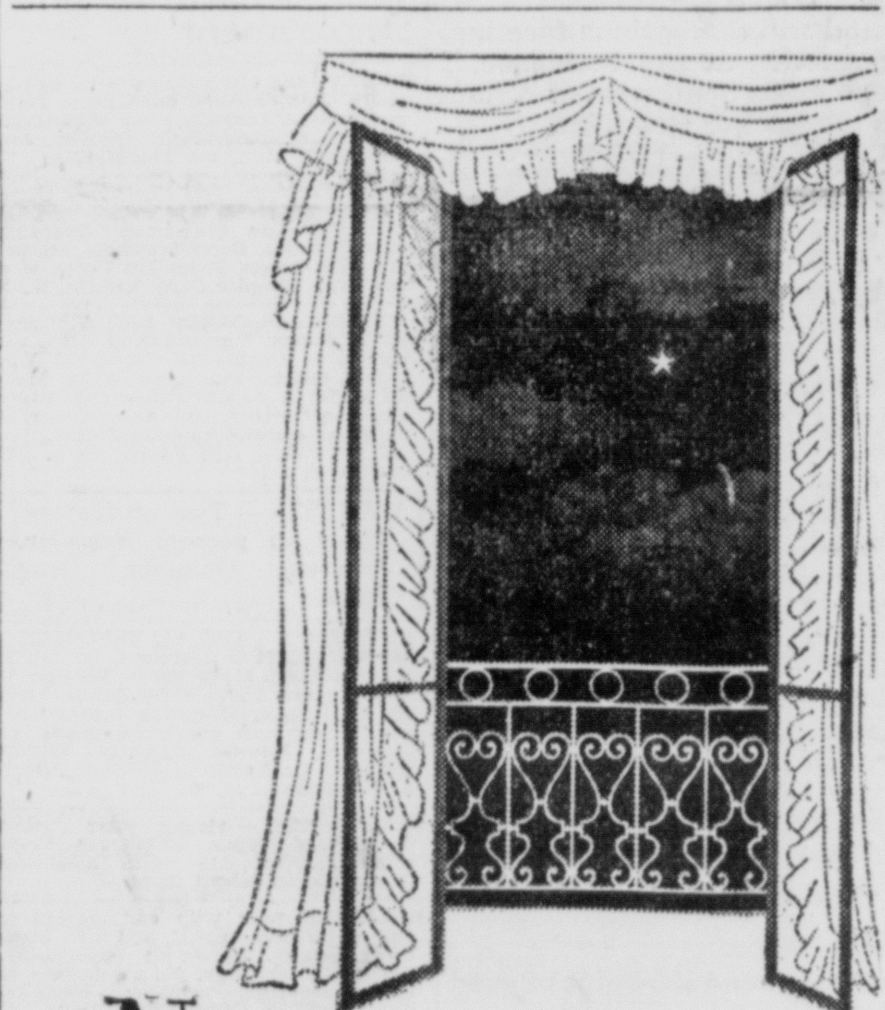

Youth Nabbed After Car Chase

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24—A 19-year-old youth, captured in a bullet-splattered chase through Cleveland's east side, is being held today for questioning in connection with a series of recent robberies.

A suburban East Cleveland patrol car started after the youth when his car began weaving yesterday morning. The chase led through the suburb and into Bratenahl, finally back to Cleveland where he was forced to the curb.

It took four policemen to subdue the driver. The wheels of his auto had been battered by bullets. Police said they fired at least 14 shots during the six-mile chase.

The famed Lincoln Memorial in Washington cost $2,940,000.

Nobel Prize Winner Develops New TV Tube

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—A university of California atomic scientist, winner of the Nobel Prize in physics for his invention of the cyclotron, has been credited with the development of a new TV tube that can receive programs in both black and white and color.

A private New York demonstration of the tube was given by the inventor, Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence, who is director of the university of California radiation laboratory.

The Lawrence tube, it was claimed, may bring color TV into the home sooner than expected. It was said to be adaptable to receive both the CBS and RCA color programs at little cost.

The California scientist's tube, it was stated, is simple enough so that it can be mass-produced by any manufacturer of standard tubes. Dr. Lawrence said development of the tube had nothing to do with his work at the university. He said he developed it in his spare time while working in his hobby shop near Berkeley, Cal.

A FEATURE of the tube, it was said, is that it can receive color without use of any color wheel converter. Basically, it is said to work on an electronic lens principle. According to the description given at the demonstration in the offices of Paramount Pictures Corp., this lens deflects electrons to the proper color strip on a glass viewing plate. Color is accomplished, it was said, by synchronization of the "color switching" in the tube and the rate of transmission.

Men Read Better Than Women

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24—Women may be able to out-talk men, but whether they can read faster is disputable.

William P. Wood, instructor in remedial reading at the University of Cincinnati, says he has proof today that men not only read faster but better.

In a survey conducted in his evening classes, Wood showed that women averaged 200 points, while men were better with 312.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that the retail food price index for Columbus area declined 0.1 percent between mid-July and mid-August.

The bureau's north central regional office in Chicago said the food index in mid-August was 207.3 percent of the 1935-39 average and was 6.9 percent above the level of a year ago.

Fruits and vegetables declined 5.8 percent in the period but increases of 1.2 percent for sugar and sweets, 0.8 percent for meats, poultry and fish, 0.5 percent for cereals and bakery products and 0.1 percent for beverages nearly offset the decreases reported.

Chrysler Fluid-Torque Drive... Teamed with the Chrysler FirePower 180 horsepower V-8 engine, the new Fluid-Torque drive gives Saratoga faster acceleration to cruising speeds, and more flexible "change of pace," than any other car on the road! (Available at extra cost on all new Saratogas.)

4 Sleek New Body Styles... 6 Passenger Sedan, 8 Passenger Sedan, Club Coupe, Town & Country Wagon.

Hemispherical Combustion Chambers... the engineering reason why no other American passenger car engine today can match FirePower performance.

Do you know whether or not these dreaded property destroyers are at work on your home?

Why not be SURE. Have your property inspected by an EXPERT without cost or obligation. If your property is not infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed.

BIG TEAMS PLAY THIS WEEK

Most Ohio College Teams Fare Well In New Season

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24 — The bulk of Ohio college football teams today enjoy the victory side of the ledger with Cincinnati and Xavier leading.

Cincinnati's Bearcats rolled to a 34-0 shutout over Kansas State's Wildcats for their second straight win while Xavier snapped St. Bonaventure's 22-game home-winning streak by 40-6.

Toledo, Bluffton, Ohio Northern and Cedarville, other Ohio eleven's with two games under their belts, have splits.

Kent State's golden flashes successfully debuted in the Mid-American Conference with a smashing 48-19 win at Western Michigan.

Dayton University's "junior" squad warmed the hearts of Flyer fans with a 21-14 win over the pro-packed Marines from Quantico in its season opener.

MIAMI U., steady powerhouse in the Mid-American loop and its defending champion, inaugurated its season in Kansas with a 21-13 victory over Wichita.

The Blue Streaks from Cleveland's John Carroll university, with only three starters from last year's top-notch eleven, pre-announced an exciting season with a 24-0 victory over St. Francis, Loretto, Pa.

Other Ohio colleges making successful debuts in the '51 grid season were Bowling Green over Ohio Wesleyan, 23-13; Cleveland Case over Akron, 21-14; Heidelberg over Bluffton, 40-25; Ohio University over Morris Harvey, 26-0; Wilmington over Otterbein, 7-0; and Wooster over Hiram, 13-9.

Toledo dropped its second of the new season to Detroit, 34-32.

Meanwhile, the college foot-

Steelers Reap Win Over Bruins

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24 — A stout defense provided the Pittsburgh Steelers with their best of defense yesterday as they downed the Chicago Bears 23-21 in an exhibition game in Pittsburgh.

The Steelers' line permitted the Bears only 39 yards in rushing and the secondary intercepted four Bruin passes to set up two touchdowns.

confused as lefting liberals and with equal lack of definition as to a program. This split is real.

Senator Wayne Morse, for instance, is in no manner related to the Republican Party except for the legalism of running under its banner. Once elected, he associates himself with Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Morse is not without a following and acceptance among some Republicans. The same could be said for Governor Driscoll of New Jersey and Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts. These are important political personalities whose attitudes do count. As they cannot be ignored, the Republicans are split.

The time has probably passed for an effective coalition between the conservative Republicans and the conservative Democrats. Had such a coalition come into existence, it would, in the present mood of the people, have swept the country. What it amounts to is that there is a popular wish for a decent, constructive, conservative candidacy and administration. But the politicians, who control delegations and conventions, are playing solitaire—at which they rarely win.

German Collects European Title

BERLIN, Sept. 24 — Germany holds the European heavyweight boxing title today for the first time since 1939.

Hein Ten Hoff became the first German to win the crown when he decisively defeated England's Jack Gardner last night in a 15-round bout. Gardner had held the championship since February.

Big Returns Seen In Garden

In times like these, growing your own vegetables can save a surprising amount of money. A recent survey revealed that $5.25 invested in seeds, insecticides, and plant food will pay you back $91.02.

That's better than 17 to one on your investment. The $5.25 cost figure assumes you have the basic tools—garden hoe, spading fork, rake and trowel. Also, that you spare the plot, and grow plants from seed.

Employ Physically Handicapped Week To Be Observed Here

Oct. 7-13 Is Set For Programs

Mayor, Governor Issue Statements

Mayor Thurman I. Miller has signed a proclamation setting aside the week of Oct. 7-13 in Circleville as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

The mayor urged all citizens to participate actively in the annual NEPH campaign, which is dedicated primarily to increasing job opportunities for handicapped workers, who by training and experience, are qualified to hold permanent jobs despite their physical disabilities.

Governor Frank J. Lausche, who has signed a proclamation setting aside the week for the whole of Ohio, said that NEPH Week was "eminently worth while."

He told officials of the Ohio State Employment Service recently that every effort would be made to enlist the support of all Ohio citizens.

community should be rightfully concerned over the problem of employment of the physically handicapped, and

Whereas, there is a common conviction that physically impaired men and women should be given an equal opportunity to work, to earn a livelihood, and so take their place in the productive life of the community, and

Whereas, we are now experiencing a period of peak employment in which the services of every available worker are required, and

Whereas, it is an established fact that physically handicapped workers are able to work efficiently and effectively in jobs which they can do; and

Whereas, there is a continuing need for public support and active participation in the furtherance of employment of the physically handicapped on the basis of their demonstrated abilities.

Now, therefore, I, Thurman I. Miller, mayor of the city of Circleville, do urge all the citizens of this community to cooperate with the mayor's committee on National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and with all other committees engaged in the promotion of this observance; and I hereby set aside the week beginning Oct. 7, 1951, as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

FOLLOWING is the text of the mayor's proclamation:

NEW COMMITTEE FORMED

Medics To Make Effort To End Intern Scramble

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—The medical profession will make a mighty effort this year to end the annual wild scramble by hospitals for interns—and by senior medical students for good internships—with punch-cards, a machine and a "matching plan."

The medical educators who will administer the new system said yesterday they can do nothing to relieve the basic problem: a demand for roughly 10,000 interns and a supply of only 6,000 medical school graduates.

But they do think the plan will make everyone — hospitals and interns alike—much happier.

In the past, graduating medical students selected four or five hospitals of their choice, filed applications for internship, forwarded their scholastic records and recommendations — and then the scramble was on.

A student might receive telegraphed offers from four of the hospitals—but no word from the institution at which he really wanted to work. In an agony of indecision, he might hold out for months—keeping the four other hospitals waiting—and then finally accept one of the unwanted four.

ALL TOO often he then received an offer from that fifth hospital—which had been left dangling at the last minute when the students to which it had offered internships accepted other posts.

To remedy this disorganization, five major medical groups — the American Medical Association, the Association of American Medical Colleges, and three hospital associations — formed the National Interassociation Committee on Internships to administer the "matching plan."

Under the new scheme, interns will make their own choices of hospitals, as in the past, and send in their applications and records. But they also will send the interassociation committee a confidential form listing their choices in order of preferences.

And then the hospitals, after reviewing the applications, will send the committee a list of the prospective interns they regard as desirable—also in order of preference.

All of this information will be tabulated on punched cards. Then a "first run" will be made with special business machines in an attempt to match the students and the hospitals who gave each other first choice.

Since each hospital has a fixed quota of internships, there will still be some vacancies. A second run will match students who ranked the hospital first with hospitals who ranked the students second; a third will match students who ranked the hospital second with hospitals who ranked the students first; and a fourth run will match the second choices of each.

Dean Francis J. Mullin of the Chicago medical school, chairman of the Interassociation Committee, reported in the Journal of Medical Education today that a test run on last year's internship applications showed the plan would have matched 91 per cent of the students with hospitals which rated them first or second and 92 percent of the students with hospitals of their first, second or third choice.

Now, more than ever, the price tags sum it up:

You're paying for a Packard....why not own one?

Packard is holding the line on prices!

We can't tell, of course, what may happen in later months. But in the face of industry-wide price boosts, Packard has made today's decision: No price increases now!

And why is it possible for Packard to continue holding the line on prices?

Answer: Because Packard "got in under the wire" on its latest (and greatest) new-model changeover.

That was a wise move for Packard to make—and it points to a wise move for you to make...

Check today's delivered prices on auto row. You'll know then, for certain: "You're paying for a Packard... why not own one?"

One easy step never took you so far!

Just compare the slight difference in your monthly payments (after 1/3 down payment), between one of the lightly built "low-priced" cars and a new 1951 Packard... the newest new car of them all:

*Remember: a generous trade-in allowance can make these figures smaller. Note: Figures are based on Detroit-delivered prices—but cash differences are comparable throughout the country.
